Plagiarism:

The Department of Classics, Modern Languages and Linguistics upholds the University's principles of academic integrity and expects its students to understand and follow the regulations of the Code of Conduct (Academic).

<http://www.concordia.ca/students/academic-integrity/code.html>

All students are advised to consult the following website on academic integrity and information concerning plagiarism and other forms of academic misconduct:

<http://www.concordia.ca/students/academic-integrity.html>

Ignorance of these regulations is not a viable excuse for transgressing the Code of Conduct (Academic). Violations of the Code of Conduct (Academic) can result in a variety of sanctions which include, among others, a failure of your assignment, a failure in your course or additional mandatory credits.

Placement:

Please note that the misrepresentation of one's linguistic background and abilities is considered a form of *Academic Misconduct* and, as such, will be treated as a *Code Violation* by the Department of Classics, Modern Languages and Linguistics. In other words, being registered in a level that is inferior to your knowledge of the language is considered a form of cheating as per our Departmental Policy.

Please refer to the following chart to determine your placement level. On-line placement testing is available and may be required. If your background is not covered by the chart or you are not sure about your placement, please contact the Department.

IF YOU HAVE:

YOUR PLACEMENT LEVEL:

No previous training in Spanish
High School: 2 years of Spanish or less
CEGEP: Intro Spanish I

SPAN 200 or 201

CEGEP: Intro Spanish II or Intermediate Spanish I
